- -Do you have your receipt? Invoice
- -Yes, here you are.
- -Was anything wrong with the jeans?
- -No, no problem, they're just the wrong size. They're too small.
- -Would you like to exchange them for a larger size?
I can check if we have them in stock.
- -No, thank you. I decided that I don't like the style so much, either. Is it possible to get a refund?
- -Of course. Do you have the card you paid with?
- -Can't I get cash?
- -I'm sorry, but we can only issue a refund to the card you paid with.
- Alternatively, we can offer you gift vouchers for the same amount.
- -Fine, put it on the card, then.
- -No problem.

Do you have your receipt?

Returning Something to a Shop

Would you like to exchange

it for something else?

Passage 1

Every weekend, I go shopping downtown with a friend, but it is more of a hobby than anything else.

I usually take a little cash, but I also have a credit card in case I need to charge something.

I just make sure I don't go into too much debt spending money I really don't have.

I mainly visit department and clothing stores to check out the latest fashions.

If I find something on sale at an unbeatable price, I sometimes buy it.

I make sure to keep the receipt in case I have to return the item.

I really enjoy walking along the store fronts and gazing into the windows to see what the store is selling.

At other times, I like looking at the displays in stores or strolling through shopping centers.

Sometimes, something like a shirt or jeans catches my eye, but I'm not a compulsive shopper, so I never buy the first thing I see. Many times, I come home without buying a thing.

At the Supermarket

STEVE: We need to buy some beer too. Where is the beer?

DEREK: They don't have beer in this supermarket. We have to go to the liquor store.

STEVE: Huh? They don't have beer. How can that be?

DEREK: It's a state law. This state doesn't allow supermarkets to sell beer. Only in liquor stores.

STEVE: That's too strict. It's silly.

DEREK: I know. I agree with you.

At the Supermarket

DEREK: Excuse me. Do you sell organic vegetables here?

EMPLOYEE: Yes, we do. They're right in front of you. The organic vegetables are marked with the blue label. Here. Do you see?

DEREK: Sure. Thank you. You should have a sign. That way people could identify which are organic and which aren't.

EMPLOYEE: They're labeled on the packet, sir.

DEREK: One more question.

EMPLOYEE: Yes?

DEREK: We need to buy some soy sauce. Which aisle is the soy sauce in?

EMPLOYEE: That would be in aisle 7, with the condiments. It is right next to the ketchup.

DEREK: Thank you.

At the Supermarket

DEREK: Do you want paper or plastic bags?

STEVE: Plastic bags.

DEREK: And do you want to drive up?

STEVE: What do you mean?

DEREK: We can have someone put the bags in our trunk for us.

We just drive up to that door over there.

STEVE: Wow! That's convenient. But I think we can take the groceries by ourselves.

DEREK: Yes, our car is not parked far away. I'll tell the cashier we don't want to drive up. It should be about ninety dollars all together.

STEVE: Here is one-hundred. I will go look at the magazine rack, okay?

Buying Shoes

IVY: I want to buy some running shoes. Maybe New Balance.

DAVID: Why do you need running shoes? You aren't a runner.

IVY: But I exercise at the club. And I use the stepping machine. So I need good running shoes.

DAVID: That's not the same. Maybe you want to buy running-shoe-style shoes, but not real running shoes.

IVY: What's the difference?

DAVID: There isn't much difference. But there is some difference. For one thing, real running shoes are much more expensive. They have very lightweight materials. They're designed for serious runners, people who run ten kilometers a day.

Buying Shoes

IVY: And what are running-shoe-style shoes?

DAVID: They look like running shoes. They have the same shape. And you can use them for running too. But they're not so serious. They aren't designed for serious runners. You can use them for exercising.

IVY: But they aren't as light, right?

DAVID: That's right. If you want a really lightweight shoe, you should buy a high-quality running shoe.

IVY: That's what I want. For exercising at the club. I can even spend 100 dollars on them. I don't care.

DAVID: But it's a waste of money. You won't really run in them! You don't need such a shoe to use exercise machines. It's just a waste of money.

Buying Shoes

IVY: My sister has New Balance running shoes. I want shoes just like hers. I don't care if they're expensive. And they look cool too.

DAVID: Well, do what you like. There are different kinds of New Balance shoes though. You don't have to buy the most expensive.

IVY: I want the best. My sister said good shoes are very important. For support. They support your feet.

DAVID: Your sister is a fitness expert, huh?

IVY: No, but she exercises more than me.

DAVID: I really think you are stubborn about some things. But here. Let's look at the New Balance shoes.

Buying Shoes

IVY: Here it is. This is what my sister has.

DAVID: Yes, that's it. That's their top model.

IVY: I wonder if they have my size.

DAVID: Well, we can wait for the assistant to help us, or we can look through the boxes down here. What is your size?

IVY: Here in America, it's six.

DAVID: Well, here you are. Size six. Woman's. 137 dollars. Wow, what a waste of money!

IVY: It's none of your business. Let me try them on.
